Assalamu alaykum waramatuLlah wabarakatuhu,

Thank you for downloading this list. I pray that you find it beneficial, aameen.

Muslim parents have a desire to teach their children about Islam from birth, and this is a noble desire that shows that we take our obligation over our children seriously. But sometimes, we do not know where to start or what to teach. Some parents have told me that they do not know what to talk about with their child, beyond teaching the Qur'an and how to read Arabic.

That is why I have compiled this list of 70 topics that you can teach your child. This list is not exhaustive by any means, rather, it is meant to give you ideas of what you can talk about, as well as inspire you towards coming up with more topics yourself.

Note:

- These topics are prompts, to give you an idea of what to talk about. The parent will expand on each prompt and explain to the child.
- Please verify the authenticity/correctness of what you know about each topic before teaching your child. E.g.: Allah is ABOVE the heavens, not IN the heavens. This is an error many of us make with regards to where Allah is (He cannot be inside something He created).
- You can verify hadiths at www.sunnah.com
- This list does not include the memorisation of the Qur'an since that is a different and continuous activity
- Where there are duas (e.g., the duas made by Prophets Musa and Yunus) endeavor to teach the child these duas and help them memorise them. These duas are some of the invaluable treasures of all Muslims.
- Topics are at different levels of 'difficulty' depending on the child's age and knowledge. You may leave some topics for later or skip some altogether if the child is familiar with them already.

TIPS

- If you are at a loss on how to start a topic (e.g., Zam Zam), ask yourself: "what can I tell my child about this topic?"
- Pick a topic per day or week, whatever works for your schedule. Teach the child everything you know about it, and if they can write, ask them to write a few words about the topic.

- Teaching does not have to be “teaching” per say. Just talking about a topic while taking a walk or cooking is good enough. You do not need to always be seated at a desk with books and papers.
